LONDON, Nov. 12.—A critical stage in the battle in West Flanders has been reached, and the next few days, if not hours, should produce something more decisive than has yet occurred.

The Germans have continued to attack with all the forces at their command the British and French who hold the line between Dixmude and Ypres, but with the exception of the capture of Dixmude, which occurred Tuesday, and some little progress around Ypres, they have not been able to make any material advance.

The French official report issued this afternoon said that all the attacks have been repulsed. The Germans are no longer utilising green troops in this region, but have brought up the pick of their army, including some Prussian guards, who attempted an offensive movement against the British, but without success.

Will Cost City About $2,000 For New Approach

Plans for the construction of a new bridge of the running girder type over Cache la Poudre street at the Santa Fe tracks were submitted to Commissioner A. J. Lawton of the department of public works and property yesterday by engineers of the Santa Fe railroad. Under the plans it will be necessary for the city to build a conduit over Shooks run, at an approximate cost of $2,000. The proposition will be submitted to the city council and it is probable that an appropriation for this work will be included in the 1915 budget.

The bridge which the Santa Fe proposes to build will cost about $25,000 and will be of the latest type. The present bridge necessitates a turn in the street and the city government has tried for years to bring about the con-

WOMEN CELEBRATE SUFFRAGE VICTORY

News: "Most Male" State in Union; Has Two Men to One Woman

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 12.—The advent of Montana and Nevada into the ranks of suffrage states was celebrated tonight by delegates to the National American Woman Suffrage association, which opened its annual convention here today.

In a symposium on the fight for the ballot in the seven "campaign states," where suffrage was an issue at last week's elections, representatives of the suffrage organizations of the two warring amendments were successful and the five where they were lost told of their successes and their hopes for the future.

One Big Bass Solo.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the association, said if men could be made to use the same sense of justice in their consideration of women that they employed with regard to men, the surface fight would be won. "But they seem unable to do this," she declared, "and even now, after the war, they are the ones who are the most clered, because men are the great sentimentalists of the race. All these women are asking is that men believe what they themselves say. They say that they want a government of the people by the people and for the people, but by their treatment of women regarding the ballot they show they do not believe that. They say the voice of the people is the voice of God, but "The men of America make much of their boasted democracy, but this government is not a democracy; it is a aristocracy of sex. They have seen fit to cling to the doctrine of the divine right of sex' in all their government affairs, but this is becoming as obsolete in the thought of men of the United States as the doctrine of the 'divine right of kings' is becoming in the mind of European men. Think of the terrible cost of that doctrine across the water."

Montana, declared her state the "most male state" in the union, the 1916 census showing two men to every woman. The suffrage victory, also, said, indicated that the men had realized their need of women in helping to direct governmental affairs.

was attributed by Miss Mary Stewart to thorough organization in each county and to the harmonious work by both leaders and the rank and file.

The expressions were taken to mean that Dr. Shaw probably would have been elected to the National Organization for the Advancement of Colored People.

southeast, there have been engagements of lesser importance, in which, according to the French report, General Joffe's armies have succeeded in gaining ground and strengthening their positions. The Germans continue to destroy bridges and railroads in Belgium, and in the Netherlands.

It is thought, however, that they are making preparations to winter in that country and they are taking every step to prevent their plans from becoming known to their enemies.

ILLINOIS CLUB WOMEN FAVOR MANY REFORMS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 12.—Delegates to the annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs today adopted the following resolutions:

Favoring a constitutional convention for the purpose of providing for complete woman suffrage.

Abolishment of houses of ill-fame and the distribution of sex hygiene pamphlets by the state university.

Favoring peace in Europe.

Indorsing the Lincoln highway.

Indorsing the Gilbert bill making polygamy a federal offense.

Indorsing the Fashion Act in view of its movement for American designed goods.

The convention will close tomorrow with the election of officers.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Weak Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though it is troublesome, an easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Witch's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not beautiful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Witch's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell because it does so naturally. No agents. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. In morning all gray hairs have disappeared and after another application of two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

SAYS BACKACHE IS SIGN YOU HAVE BEEN EATING TOO MUCH MEAT

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms the uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and sluggish. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you get backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach aches, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water acids and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician or get from your pharmacist a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to cleanse and stimulate sluggish kidneys also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive (cannot induce and makes a delicious drink). Use 1 white-water drink.

JAPAN USURPS PLACE OF AMERICA IN CHINA, DECLARES ROCKHILL

Sec. as Wilson's Policy in Dealing With the Far East Problem

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The policy of the United States toward China has resulted in the ascendancy of Japan, and the decline of American influence and trade, said W. W. Rockhill, former minister to China, and now special advisor to President Yuan Shi-kai, in an address tonight to the Asiatic Institute. The attitude of the present administration at Washington, Mr. Rockhill said, had occasioned "the profound regret of China and her friends."

Mr. Rockhill asserted that from 1900 Japan had taken the place of the United States as guardian of the "open door" in China, and became its chief exponent. Japan renewed her alliance with Great Britain in 1902, playing the maintenance of the "open door."

Not content with these pledges of its good faith in the policy of the "open door" in China, said Mr. Rockhill, Japan, in 1907, pledged herself to it in an agreement with France, and yet again in 1908 to the United States.

Criticizes American Policy.

From this point Mr. Rockhill traced the decline of American interests in China and criticized this country's eastern policy.

"There is absolutely no doubt," he said, "that in southern Manchuria British and American trade have been steadily declining since that part of China passed under Japanese control, nor is there any doubt that it has been for a great part driven out by Japanese competition supported by preferential customs and railway rates, shipping bounties and successful resistance by its traders in Manchuria to paying Chinese internal taxes. America, the protagonist of the 'open door' policy, let pass out of its hands the duty and responsibility of maintaining it, and the honor of retaining the commanding role in the affairs of the far east which would have been ours."

"Before, however, retiring from the scene of activity in China, our government, in 1905, made one more attempt to maintain the policy of the 'open door' by securing American financial participation in several important loans which the government of China was seeking to negotiate with various foreign banks. I will not dwell on the stirring incidents which marked the feeble appearance of America in the field of finance and politics in China, but I cannot pass it without mention of the permanent moral benefit it brought us, the practical assistance it rendered China, while it lasted, in defending her rights and interests, and the profound regret of China and her friends when, moved by idealistic views and imperfect information, the present administration at Washington saw fit, in the spring of last year, to withdraw its support from the American bank."

While declaring that our interests are those of the open door, a door of friendship and mutual advantage, this is the only door we are to enter, it is decided to take another step to show the one or to secure the other."

Branch of Neutrality.

Hostilities between Germany and Japan with which China entertained friendly relations, on territory over which the terms of the agreement with Germany she still had rights of sovereignty, was known to Mr. Rockhill as a most flagrant breach of neutrality.

Mr. Rockhill said China was in need of the moral support of foreign military, especially America, to preserve at this time her neutrality, and insure internal peace.

He did not intend that our naval forces in the China station have been increased to continue, so that we have taken any steps to fulfill this duty. I can but feel that the presence of the U. S. fleet has been appreciated and adequate measures adopted to discharge our obligations.

So long as we shut our eyes to its undoubted fact that the vast to hand political, financial and trade soars in hand and that our policy for the last twenty years has been to profit of trade and to reply respect for our influence and prestige, he adequately upheld without incurring the responsibilities incident to political and financial activity. We must be content to play a modest, effaced role in the great country and its vast interests in the Pacific."

DENVER BAR TO NAME CANDIDATES FOR BENCH

DENVER, Nov. 12.—Members of the Denver Bar association at a luncheon today voted to hold a primary election to select six candidates for recommendation to fill the vacancy on the district bench created by the retirement of Judge James H. NORTH CAROLINA AND TENNESSEE SAFE IN THE MEDITERRANEAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Cablegrams direct from the commanders of the cruisers North Carolina and Tennessee today brought word to the navy department that all was well aboard these two American warships in the Mediterranean and denied that marines or blue-jackets had been landed by the North Carolina at Beirut, Syria.

Austrian Emperor Goes Down Into Own Pockets to Help Raise War Fund

VENICE (via Paris), Nov. 12.—Extraordinary efforts are being put forward in Austria-Hungary to secure the successful flotation of new war loans. The emperor himself has taken the unprecedented step of ordering a large sum of money from his private purse invested equally in the Austrian and Hungarian issues. Government and other ecclesiastical foundations have agreed to take large allotments and several municipalities are doing the same.

The agricultural associations in Hungary have united in an appeal to the agrarians to turn some part of the great profits they have made from the war by participation in the new loans.

Meanwhile, the general commercial situation is reported to be steadily growing worse, and the newspapers are publishing daily lists of firms which have been placed under official supervision.

Old Plantation Songs Removed From Schools in the City of Boston

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—The old plantation songs, "My Old Kentucky Home," "Swanee River," "Massa's in de Cold, Cold Ground" are insults to the negro race according to speakers, both negro and white, who appeared today at a hearing before the school committee. As a result of their protest, the committee voted immediately to withdraw from the schools a book of 40 songs recently compiled by the musical director. The objections to the songs were based partly on the use of the words "daddy," "mamma" and "coon."

Wrong Men Convicted in Hatters' Case, Say Attorneys for Defense

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Arguing that the wrong men were convicted in the Danbury hatters' case, Alton B. Parker and Frank L. Mulholland, in a brief filed with the supreme court today, urged the court to set aside the $25,000 judgment imposed under the Sherman antitrust law upon 146 hat factory laborers of Danbury, New York, and Bedford, Conn.

The attorneys contended none of the defendants participated in the slightest degree in the boycott of the hats of J. E. Lowe & Co. for which they were convicted, and that they could not be held for illegal acts performed by their officers.

Britons Urged to Quit A.C. hol as Example to Soldiers in Field

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The archbishop of Canterbury presided at a mass meeting today when resolutions were adopted calling for national support of Field Marshal Kitchener's appeal for assistance in keeping the soldiers temperate.

The archbishop urged that all in the audience who were not total abstemious become so at least for the period of the war as an example to the troops. Treating was condemned and it was pointed out that with sterilized water, there are three ways to no reason why soldiers in the field should abstain from alcoholic stimulants.

the support of the campaign states for reelection.

A brief discussion of the report of the congressional committee followed the presentation of the report late today by its chairman, Mrs. Medill McCormick. Further debate on the committee's work, which has aroused sharp criticism among some of the delegates, is expected tomorrow.

Mrs. Theresa Crowley of Boston, during the discussion today, declared the committee had made a mistake in putting Senator Lodge on its "blacklist" because, she said, that action had aroused the senator's antagonism. Miss Kate M. Gordon of New Orleans and Mrs. Maud Wood Park of Boston expressed their belief that efforts to obtain suffrage through state amendments were more important than the committee's work on behalf of the federal amendment plan.

Miss M. Carey Thomas of Bryn Mawr, Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton of Connecticut and Miss Mary Winsor of Pennsylvania commended the plan of the congressional committee and asserted their faith in the advisability of working for a federal amendment.

Mexico City, leaving Carranza to operate toward the coast of the Mexican capital.

Dispatches given out tonight by Rafael Zubaran Capmany, Washington representative of General Carranza, stated that General Obregon, Blanco Gonzalez, Villareal, Hay and others would support the first chief. The telegrams dated yesterday said that these men called on Carranza to resign, but on his statement of his position in refusing, they decided to ignore the contention and support him.

Mr. Zubaran also gave out a telegram from Carranza announcing that his position had opened between his forces and those of the convention and that he had notified all civil and military authorities to recognize only his own orders as he was still "first chief of the Constitutional army, in charge of the executive power of the nation by virtue of the plan of Guadalupe."

HEARINGS ON OPENING OGDEN GATEWAY BEGINS IN DENVER NEXT TUESDAY

DENVER, Nov. 12.—Hearings before a committee of the interstate commerce commission against the closing of the Ogden gateway to the Yellowstone National park will begin next Tuesday.

Representatives of Utah, Montana and several Colorado towns on the western slope arrived here today and will enter the hearings before the committee.

The interstate commerce commission granted a temporary restraining order preventing the enforcement of a ruling by the Union Pacific railroad not to sell interstate tickets to the national park if routed over competing lines. The hearings next week will be upon the question of making the order a permanent one.

PRES. WILSON INSULTED BY NEGRO CALLER

belong to the other members of the committee, but that Trotter's tone was offensive.

The president told Trotter that he was an American citizen as fully as anybody else, but that he (Trotter) was the only American citizen who had ever come into the White house and addressed the president in such a tone and such a background of passion.

Spelled His Cause.

Here Trotter denied that he had any passion, but the president told him he had spoiled the cause for which he had come and said he expected those who professed to be Christians to come to him in a Christian spirit. The negro spokesman continued to argue that he was merely trying to show how the colored people felt, and asserted that he and others were now being branded as strikers to their race because they advised the colored people "to support the ticket."

This mention of votes caused Mr. Wilson to say that politics must be left out because it was a form of blackmail. He said he would react if as quickly from one set of men as from another, and that his auditors could vote as they pleased, it mattered little to him so long as he was sure he was doing the right thing at the right time.

The president spoke frankly, saying that if the colored people had made a mistake in voting for him they could correct it, but that he would insist that politics should not be brought into the question because it was a problem of the nation.

Not Seeking Office.

With some emotion he declared he was not seeking office, and that a man who sought the office of the presidency was a fool for his pains.

He spoke of the intolerable burden of the office and of things which he had to do to which were more than the human spirit could carry.

"Emphasizing that he did not care in the least for the political consideration involved, Mr. Wilson urged that he wanted his auditors to understand that it was a human problem and not a political problem. While the American people wanted to support the advancement of the negro, the president was sure that as practical men everybody knew there was a point at which friction was apt to occur. The question must be a question of sentiment and viewed on its facts, because the facts got the better of the individual, whether one desired it or not."

No Distinction Shown.

The president said he thought his colleagues in the government departments were not trying to put the negro at a disadvantage, but simply to make arrangements which would prevent action. He said that the situation involved was a question of intrinsic qualities, because all of them in souls and were equal in that respect, but that the present situation was a question of economic policy whether the negro could do the same things that the white man could do with equal efficiency.

He said he thought the negroes were proving that they could, and that everyone wished to him that so that they would not be dependent, and that their conditions of labor would be bettered. The entire matter, however, should be treated with a recognition of its difficulties, he said. Mr. Wilson said he was anxious to do what was just and asked for more memoranda from the committee as to instances of segregation about which they complained.

How German Submarines Able to Approach Coast of England Is a Mystery

LONDON, Nov. 12.—William Joynton-Hicks, Unionist in the house of commons, today reflected the widespread anxiety concerning the presence of German spies in this country. He said there was a German in London who had been in touch with a German statesman and the firm of Krupp and that two sons of the London agent of that firm had been sworn in as special constables in London. These men, Mr. Joynton-Hicks added, might be estimable but they would be better under lock and key.

There are, 10,000 alien enemies in the country, the speaker continued. It is certain that similar had been given to German submarines to enable them to torpedo British ships, he said, and that by some means a chart of the

SPRINGS FILM WILL BE

The Crooks, a one reel comedy produced in Colorado Springs last summer by the Lullin studios headed by Romaine Fielding will be exhibited at the Princess theater today. The film shows scenes in Monument Valley, park, Glen Eyrie and on the streets. The entire company was used in the picture. This is the third of the pictures made in Colorado Springs to be shown here. The others were "The Dreamer" and "All for Love." The Eagles Nest, an eight-reel production costing a large sum of money has not been shown here.

A. F. OF L. URGES PRES. WILSON TO END COAL STRIKE

WOULD FORCE OPERATORS TO TERMS

More Than 100 Resolutions Introduced at Meeting in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—More than 100 resolutions dealing with many problems of labor, including jurisdictional differences, the European war and the social welfare of workmen have been presented to the American Federation of Labor convention at its consideration. A large number of these resolutions were filed with the secretary of the federation today as the time limit for introducing them expired tonight.

Among the important resolutions presented and referred to the committee was one by the coal miners among the president of the United States to insist that the Colorado mine operators comply with the federal plan for settlement of the strike in that state and for the government to take over the mines and operate them in the event the mine owners refuse to accept the peace plan.

Gompers' Resolution on War
Another resolution which attracted attention and probably will be adopted by the convention was introduced by President Samuel Gompers and related to the European war. It conveyed the sympathy of the organized labor movement of America to the organized labor movements of Europe. Continuing, the resolution said:

"That the intervention of the American Federation of Labor, in view of the general peace congress which no doubt will be held at the close of the war for the purpose of adjusting claims and differences, hold itself in readiness and authorize the executive council to call a meeting of representatives of organized labor of the different nations to meet at the same time and place, to the end that suggestions may be made and such action taken as shall be helpful in restoring fraternal relations, protecting the interests of the toilers and thereby assisting in laying foundations for a more lasting peace."

Would Repeal Military Law
Among other resolutions introduced for action by committees was one urging the repeal of the Dick military law and "other legislation having a tendency to further the spirit of militarism."

Another provided for the establishment by legislatures of state labor bureaus for aiding the unemployed in obtaining work and to abolish "shark" employment agencies.

A resolution presented by the delegates from the International Typographical union pledges the convention, if it is adopted, to support any plan which is for its purpose the bringing about of the disarmament of all nations. The utmost exertion is to be made with the preservation of law and order throughout the world.

Urges Strike Settlement
The resolution, asking that President Wilson insist on an immediate settlement of the Colorado strike was introduced by William Green of the United Mine Workers of America, a leading for the mining department of the federation. It was referred to a committee.

The resolution recited the history of the struggle between the mine owners and miners in that state and requested that investigations have shown the justice of the miners' cause. Continuing, the resolution said:

"Resolved, That the thirty-fourth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor call upon the president of the United States to insist that the Colorado coal operators immediately comply with the federal plan of settlement and in the event the refuse, that he take such steps as are necessary to have a conference appointed for the purpose of bringing over the miners and settling them in the interest of the people under federal supervision until such time as the civil and political rights of the people are established."

MINERS, ENTOMBED 4 DAYS, RESCUED

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 12.—John Evans and William Schreiner, coal miners who had been imprisoned for four days behind a huge fall of coal in a mine in which they were working, were rescued alive this morning. The men were ensnared in robbing mine pillars when the accident occurred. They were tearing down the inner pillar of a breast when the whole structure collapsed, placing between them and daylight a vast wall of coal, rock and debris.

Rescuers, dug desperately in the effort to reach the imprisoned men, never halting for a minute.

The men were found huddled together in a blind heading. They had been without food and water but were in good condition and able to walk. They said they chewed their boots and flannel shirts to stave off the pangs of hunger.

They rapped continually but no sound was heard by the rescuers.

CHILEAN SHIPS UNABLE TO FIND TRACE OF WARSHIPS

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 12.—The two hospital ships sent out by the Chilean government to search the vicinity of the recent naval encounter between British and German cruisers have arrived in Callao and report that they found no trace of any vessels which took part in the battle.

CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED IF CONSTIPATED

When cross, feverish and sick give "California Syrup of Figs"

Children love this fruit laxative, and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely. A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels and the result is they become tightly closed with waste, liver and stomach acids then a little one becomes cross, half-sick, nervous, does not eat sleep or act naturally. Breath has bad system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. (Lester Moberg) See it. Once it is used then give a teaspoonful of California Syrup of Figs and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food pass out of the system and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" to their children. It is perfectly harmless, children love it and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 10-cent bottle of California Syrup of Figs, which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by California Fig Syrup Company. Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Quarantined, Home Destroyed
JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Nov. 12.—The farm house of Robert Vland, near here, was burned down today because neighbors and fire apparatus were barred off the grounds by foot and mouth disease quarantine.

Vland cannot leave on account of the quarantine and a tent was thrown over the fence for him to sleep in.

Lifted at East St. Louis
EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Nov. 12.—With the lifting of the quarantine on native cattle and hogs at the National stock yards here today, $10.45 per hundred, the season's highest price, was paid for beefsteaks. Hogs brought an average of $7.50. Although only 318 cattle had been received at 2 o'clock in the afternoon when the official daily count ends, 700 in all came in later, thereby bringing the day's receipts close to the normal daily average.

Case Found in West Virginia
WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 12.—The first case of the foot and mouth disease in cattle in West Virginia was reported today in Hancock county, according to reports received by S. L. Hepburn, secretary of the state board of health. It is believed the Wheeling packing house will be affected.

OHIO LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN FOR STATEWIDE PROHIBITION

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12.—Trustees of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league at a meeting here tonight voted unanimously to begin immediately a campaign for the adoption of a statewide prohibition amendment to the constitution. Under the initiative and referendum law, the prohibition proposal will be submitted to the people in the municipal and town election in November, 1915.

RELIEF POURING INTO BELGIUM FROM FOUR CORNERS OF WORLD

$3,000,000 Check Is Handed to American Committee for Aiding Cause

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The American commission for relief in Belgium has received a check on the Bank of England for $3,000,000 which was contributed by prominent Belgians interested in the relief of their countrymen.

With the emergency work in Belgium well under way, the commission now is prepared to assume the permanent task of keeping Belgians supplied with food. In this connection it has made the following statement:

"The American commission for relief in Belgium today received a check for $3,000,000 which it is estimated will be necessary for the transportation of foodstuffs for the next three months from various parts of the world into Belgium. This money has been advanced to the commission under the guarantee given by various Belgian relief committees and important Belgians.

Shows Desire to Aid Selves
This substantial sum is a most convincing evidence of the desire of the Belgians themselves to assist the commission to the fullest extent they are capable of doing. The contribution also emphasizes the urgency of the situation and, as large as the sum is, it must be borne in mind that foodstuffs to the value of about $4,000,000 monthly must be secured for seven or eight months. Of this amount $1,700,000 monthly will be required for the expense of transportation.

"The commission is arranging for a regular steamship service from the Atlantic seaboard and a transport service from the interior to the seaboard. The commission urges all local organizations and others interested in Belgian relief throughout the United States to convert all their funds into local purchases of foodstuffs as they can be more advantageously purchased by such local bodies.

U. S. Farmers Should Give
Furthermore, the commission feels that the generous Americans, who are unable to contribute from their own pockets, should contribute from their own local organizations. Each American farmer out of the abundance of his crop and every resident from their own store can well afford a few bushels of grain. What is needed is cereals—wheat, flour, shelled corn, beans and peas and also bacon and ham—as these are the only articles that will stand the long and difficult transport conditions.

"The commission is cooperating in a most cordial manner with other organizations and institutions in America and does not wish to overlap the efforts of anyone. It wishes to emphasize that its functions are the reception, transportation and distribution of foodstuffs to the Belgians from every source.

Branch in New York
By the machinery of the commission every pound of foodstuffs contributed reaches the Belgians without cost to the contributors. A branch of this commission is being perfected in New York to cooperate with others and supplies collected at the various local organizations at central points will be received and transported by it. This organization and its personnel will be completed within a few days.

"The commission already has delivered an installment of foodstuffs into the hands of local relief committees in virtually every center in Belgium. The commission is receiving most cordial assistance from the Dutch officials in expediting food through Holland and most helpful facilities from the German officials in the nature of an escort from the frontier to the various distribution points."

BANKERS ARE OPTIMISTIC ON FINANCIAL OUTLOOK

Declare That Period of Depression Is Over; May Form Pool to Take Over Securities

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—Optimism for the outlook in the financial, industrial and commercial world was expressed in reports and addresses at the opening session today of the convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America.

Despite the European war and the attendant hardships it is said to have caused American industry and finance, several of the speakers declared that the future holds forth unusual promise and that the low ebb of depression is past.

The proposal by the president of the organization, Charles D. Caldwell of Chicago, that a $250,000,000 pool be formed to take over the stocks and bonds that might be thrown on the market at the reopening of exchanges by panic-stricken investors, caused considerable informal discussion, but action by the convention was deferred.

Discussing the new federal reserve banking law, Rudolph Diamant of New York declared that the organization of the new system will redound to the benefit of the public at large and also to the investment bankers. He endorsed the securities pool as suggested by Mr. Caldwell and added that "if we could buy up, at bargain prices, a large amount of American securities from foreign investors it would be a fine thing for this country."

CRAZED PASSENGER KILLS ONE, WOUNDS TWO ON STEAMER

CHARLESTON, S. C., Nov. 12.—The arrival here today of the steamer Mohawk from New York revealed a shooting tragedy on the high seas off the North Carolina coast that resulted in the death of W. L. Himmans, business manager of the Florida Times-Union of Jacksonville, and serious injury to another passenger and to the Mohawk's captain. All three were victims of bullets fired by a crazed passenger who was looked after by George Butler Perkins, architect of Boston.

Himmans was president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' association and widely known in the south. The other injured passenger was B. H. Wright of Tulsa, N. Y. Physicians tonight said he and Captain A. D. Perkins probably would recover.

Perkins who boarded the Mohawk at New York was placed in irons immediately after the shooting last night and when the ship docked here was held on a murder charge. Evidence tending to show he was not mentally responsible was introduced at the hearing.

Mr. and Mrs. Himmans, Mr. Wright and Captain Ingram were sitting in the companionway of the Mohawk when Perkins, clad in pajamas and a raincoat, approached. The captain told him he must wear more suitable apparel if he wished to remain. Perkins immediately drew a revolver and began firing. After his victims fell, Perkins is said to have turned the weapon on himself but found he had emptied it.

When your head aches you simply must have relief or you will go wild. It's needless to suffer when you can take a remedy like Dr. James' Headache Powders and relieve the pain and neuralgia at once. Send someone to the drug store now for a dime package of Dr. James' Headache Powders. Don't suffer! In a few moments you will feel fine—headache gone—so more neuralgia pass.

GERMANY NOW SEEKING AMERICAN-MADE GOODS

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—George S. Atwood, secretary of the American Association of Commerce and Trade in Berlin who arrived in New York last night from Berlin said today that he had been sent to this country by his organization in the hope of securing business with the United States and Germany. Mr. Atwood declared that Germany is the leading chamber of commerce and business organizations in the United States. He will explain the situation in Germany in the coming months of American-made goods. He, however, will be paid to Washington to confer with government officials on the question of transporting mail and freight to and from Germany.

Mary 950-Mile Tour Through Eastern Colorado and Are Surprised at Signs

Vice President Fred P. Johnson and a committee from the Denver chamber of commerce have just completed a 950-mile automobile trip through Kit Carson, Lincoln and El Paso county farming districts. The men were accompanied by Mrs. E. H. Faus, commercial agent of the Rock Island in Colorado Springs, county agriculturist W. E. Lusk and John Lennox.

The Denver men were surprised at the rapid advance made in the dry farming districts. Faus said yesterday on his return. "The crops have been abundant and every small town in the counties intend to follow the example of El Paso and secure a county agent."

G spel Teams Convert

100 in Few Weeks' Work

An interesting meeting of the gospel teams was held last night at the Y. M. C. A. nearly three hours being consumed in discussion and the reports of committees. Plans for work on Sunday were outlined and the reports of last week's campaign were presented. More than 100 conversions have been secured to date. Eight teams will leave for the rural districts of El Paso county Sunday morning to conduct the revival services. The following schedule has been arranged: Team No. 1, Wayne; No. 2, Miami; No. 3, Dayton; No. 4, Blue Rock; No. 5, Ramah; No. 6, Table Rock; No. 7, Elbert and Eastonville and No. 8, Monument.

Mothers Tell of Mother's Friend

Experience is or should be our best teacher. Women who have obeyed the highest and noblest of all sciences, the science of the life of others, should have a better idea of helpful influence than those who theorize from observation. At any rate, when a prospective grandmother prays her daughter to do as she did to her "Mother's Friend," there is ample reason to believe it the right kind of advice. Its purpose is to furnish guidance to the mother, to take away the strain on the cords and ligaments, to relieve the tension of nerves and tendons so apt to provoke or aggravate nausea, morning sickness, twinges of the limbs and so on. It is applied externally. Although, in the nature of things, a woman would use "Mother's Friend" but rarely, yet so effective has it been found that this golden ointment is on sale in most drug stores throughout the United States. It has been prepared by Redfield Perkins Co., 705 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., and is distributed by us for over twenty years. Ask at the drug store for a bottle of "Mother's Friend." It is safe while.

BELGIAN WOMAN WORKING NIGHT AND DAY FOR COUNTRYMEN; HAS BROTHERS IN ARMY

Mrs. John Styart of Colorado City Unable to Get News of Relatives; Explains the Plight of War-Torn Kingdom

Admittedly, sympathies of the American public are with the Belgians more than any other one people or all the others combined. For that matter, speaking of war sufferers, one almost invariably mentions first the Belgians, a nationality scarcely heard of before the great European conflict. But a few days ago a large shipment of clothing was made from Colorado Springs for these people and even more a score of more groups of women and girls are spending a large portion of their time sewing for the remnants of the little country.

But if Americans are so concerned by the straits in which King Albert's subjects find themselves, the feeling of people in this country who have never seen the Atlantic Ocean or a Belgian is an equally sincere. What must be the feeling of native Belgians who have resided in the United States but a few years? If one thinks of himself as a resident of a foreign country with his native land in the conditions now faced by Belgium, he can, in a slight way, conceive the thoughts of these people here now. But only slightly, for he can't properly imagine such conditions facing his country.

Hard to Explain.

Here, in a crude way, is an insight into the thoughts of one Belgian woman in this country. Mrs. John Styart, an immigrant, cannot be well described, and, second, because there is nothing with which to compare thoughts such as this woman has every waking hour. At the display of garments for Belgian refugees at Benik hall the other day, there was one woman who attracted the attention of those in charge of the exhibit more than usual. She appeared to be particularly interested in the clothing and repeatedly expressed deep admiration of and gratefulness to the Colorado Springs women and girls who so quickly and cheerfully gave their time and money to provide them. The woman was Mrs. John Styart, of 108 Main street, Colorado City. Mrs. Styart is a native of Belgium and has been in the United States but a few years.

Just before being called to the door by a knock yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Styart was busy knitting. Through the window she could be seen making the needles fairly fly, so rapidly that one uninitiated in the art couldn't follow them.

Works for Sufferers.

"Something for one of the sufferers," she said simply, holding up the work. After explanations of the nature of the visit had been made, "Sufferers" was all that was necessary to tell her she meant. Then, before saying anything else, she told how grateful she felt toward people of Colorado Springs and all Americans for their instant response to their call of help from her country.

Mrs. Styart is large and of the type commonly called motherly, typical of the women of the smaller Belgian communities. She is exceptionally quiet, and when she does talk, her feelings are expressed more by the gestures and short, sharp, Flemish exclamations than by the English, which she speaks fairly well.

"My people," I haven't heard anything of them," she said quickly, though not sadly. That was one unexpected feature of the conversation. At no time did a note of sadness creep into Mrs. Styart's voice, rather the

NEVADA UNDERCROSSING TO OPEN FOR TRAFFIC SUNDAY

New Bridge Built by Rio Grande and

New Sidewalks and Approach Do

Away With Dangerous Curves

The Nevada avenue undercrossing will be opened for traffic Sunday, according to an announcement made yesterday by the commissioners A. J. Lawton of the department of public works and property. While the work of grading has not been entirely completed, that part of it which relates to vehicle travel is finished so that the undercrossing can be used.

The building of the new undercrossing under the Denver & Rio Grande tracks at South Nevada avenue marks the removal of one of the most unsightly and dangerous features in the city. The road took a sharp turn under the old bridge causing danger from collision. The city had used for years to negotiate the construction of a new bridge. The railroad company had been willing to do its share and it was not until last year that an appropriation was made for straightening the road and building sidewalks.

The bridge constructed by the Rio Grande is one of the loveliest girder type. The road under the bridge is divided and runs straight so that all danger is now eliminated. A six-foot sidewalk is constructed on both sides of the bridge and the city will build cement walks there as soon as possible.

Work Was Difficult.

The grading work under the bridge formed one of the most difficult propositions that the city has confronted for some time. The use of dynamite was necessitated and six horses were used to pile up the ground so that it could be hauled away. The street on either side of the bridge is graded and crowned.

The sidewalk on the west side of the street will be constructed first, according to Commissioner Lawton. On the east side of the street, several feet of excavation is still necessary and this work will be done after the west walk has been built and a safe passageway for pedestrians provided. In order to straighten the street it was necessary for the Florence & Cripple Creek Railroad company to modify the bridge, a new structure not being built.

tone was horrid, with a trace of anxiety.

"All my folks lived near Louvain," she continued. "I have asked our consular agent at Denver to try to learn something of them and he says he will. I'm just waiting to hear from him. I don't know whether their homes were burned when the Germans took Louvain or not. They may have gone to Holland, or England and Brussels. I don't know."

Brothers Are Fighting.

"But my brothers—I know where they are," she said, brightening. "They're in the army; they're fighting." She hadn't heard from them, but she was confident they were with their platoon at the front. "And my nephew, Louis, in the army. He may be dead, I don't know." She didn't speak of death as one usually does. Her mother seemed to indicate that she thought of it as a possibility, with hopes that it might not be true, but if it were true, she was only sorry he could not have continued to fight for his home. She proudly displayed a picture of the relative, a young man, tall, well built, good looking, and dressed in the full dress uniform of the Belgian army. Mr. Styart is from Flanders, where the fiercest part of the battle in the west is now raging.

Will Give Aid to Army.

"We have nothing in Belgium," Mrs. Styart said in answer to a question. "We brought everything with us. That is, everything but a little money. My husband has some money due from the government for his services in the army and I have some in Brussels. We have written the consular to see whether the Germans have taken it. If they haven't, we told him to give it to the service (place) at the disposal of the military authorities."

"We need the money now," she said rather anxiously. "And we're going to need it worse later on."

"How long do you think the war will last?" she suddenly asked. A very vague and indefinite reply was given, to which was added the query, "Why?" "Because then we must help our people, mine near Louvain and his in Flanders. They will need money, for there won't be much of anything left when the Germans are driven from the country. We can't spare much, with the baby and doctors and nurse, but we must send all we can. The women already have begun to think of giving monetary aid as soon as conditions permit."

And so the conversation went. At all times she was hopeful, never worried, yet anxious. She is spending all the time she can spare in working on garments for her countrywomen, thinking constantly of how she and her husband can save more money for their folks.

ASSESSOR PLACES COUNTY VALUATION $69,354,010

County Commissioners Will Make Levy

Next Week; Springs' Value Is

Set at $37,500,950

The county commissioners will make their appropriations and tax levy some time next week. El Paso county's total valuation, upon which taxes for 1915 will be based, is $69,354,010, according to figures furnished the commissioners yesterday by Assessor R. J. Gwillim.

Following are the valuations in the principal cities and towns in the county: Colorado Springs, $37,500,950; Colorado City, 2,120,879; Manitou, 2,427,560; Monument, 60,280; Green Mountain Falls, 120,590; Palmer Lake, 495,710.

The valuation of property in school district No. 11, which is the Colorado Springs district, is $42,363,410. In district No. 14, Manitou, it is $3,270,000. The Cheyenne school district valuation is $3,258,900, and the Colorado City district, No. 1, is $4,599,650.

Climate Failed: Medicine Effective

Sufferers from tuberculosis often think that medicine will not help them. Fresh air, rest, and good food aid in restoring health, but more is often needed. Many have been restored to health by Eckman's Alternative. Read this:—

"Gentlemen:—Through your instrumentality I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia, which developed into Tuberculosis (bacilli were found in February, 1905). I went to Fort Worth, Texas, and later to Canon City, Colorado. After being there two weeks my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 103 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive. On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Lung Trouble. Now I am stout and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator." (Abbreviated.)

(Affidavit) ARTHUR WEBB. Eckman's Alternative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and in curing the system. Contains no harmful or hurtful foreign drugs. Accept no substitutes. Small size, 25¢; regular size, 50¢. Sold by leading druggists. Write for booklet of testimonials. Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa.

Chorus Girls as Newsies for Local Charity

Hanky Panky Company to Amuse Crowd

"Buy a Gazette help the dental infirmity fund." Here you get the latest news of the war on the football game, or anything you wish.

When a vivacious little chorus girl of the Hanky Panky company arrives you in this manner following the open air concert to be given by the company in front of the Gazette building tomorrow afternoon, you will have a hard time refusing. The chorus girls are becoming experts along the lines of disposing of newspapers at good prices in their trip through the country and their manager expects them to sell a large number of papers and turn a large amount into the fund. The girl who gets the most money will be given a basket of flowers, presented by the Hanky Panky company, the presentation to be made at the evening performance.

DEAN MATTHEWS TO SPEAK

AT WINTER NIGHT CLUB

Annual Meeting Will Be Held November 30; Will Elect Officers for 1915

The annual meeting of the Winter Night club will be held at the Antlers hotel November 30. Officers will be elected and reports submitted.

Dr. Shadler Matthews, dean of the University of Chicago, will deliver the address, speaking on "Mutant Ideals." Dr. Matthews is one of the foremost educators in the United States and has devoted some time to touring.

Look Ou. Tod. y!

See the C lendar

You jump out of bed the instant the alarm sounds, feeling fine and not wishing for the other two minutes. Your breakfast is on the table, piping hot, when you're ready. The morning is perfect and everything seems full of life as you walk downtown. Business is better than usual and your work more efficient during the morning. You find your work accomplished pain and time to get on the golf links in the afternoon.

Say if all this happens, you had better get into retirement for the remainder of the day.

Phony, the thirteen.

Yes, it's here again. Twenty-four hours of it, 16 hours of less in which you will have to get during waking moments. So, stretch out.

Don't start a new stretching routine.

Don't kick about breakfast.

Don't have a car going bytown and wait until it stops before getting off.

Don't say disagreeable things to your clerks or employees.

Don't let the little grocer display itself at any time.

Don't walk there where a thousand and one more. But most of all.

Don't take chances.

And if everything is fine, don't contemplate yourself.

Get the thirteen, and Friday.

So, what's the next?

WAR WILL MAKE EUROPE ATTRACTIVE, SAYS PARISIAN

Europe will hold still greater interest for tourists, and especially Americans, after the war. In the opinion of Harold Heurt, an American tourist whose home is in Paris, Mr. Heurt, with his wife, is spending several days at the Antlers.

"Everyone who travels will want to see the great battlefields where history now is being made so rapidly," Mr. Heurt says. "And when tourists again begin to overrun Europe the busiest places will be those in the vicinity of the future battle places."

Mr. and Mrs. Heurt were in Venice when the war started, and came immediately to the United States.

a basket of flowers, presented by the Hanky Panky company, the presentation to be made at the evening performance.

The afternoon's events will commence with the parade, which will start from the open house at 12:30 tomorrow afternoon. Members of the company will be taken around the city in cars donated by Colorado Springs automobile dealers and will finish the parade at the Gazette building where the concert will be given.

There will be a big stage made of two 20-foot scene trucks, with another wagon to hold the music. The principals of the company and the members of the chorus will thus be elevated above the heads of the crowd where they may be seen distinctly and where their voices can be heard without difficulty. Among those who will sing are Miss Virginia Evans, the young southern prima donna, Davy Jones, Lester Bernard, Ralph Edwards, Louis Arch, Ruth Harris, Florence Trapp, Miss Hobbs and Al and Fannie Steadman, the eccentric comedians. Cyril Paul and Blanche Young, from the Jardin de Danse, New York, will show some of the newest of the new dances.

After the concert the members of the company will sell copies of The Gazette and the receipts will be turned over to the dental infirmity fund. In other cities these concerts have been extremely successful in raising funds for local charities.

MUSICIANS' CHARITY

BALL NEXT WEDNESDAY

Two Orchestras Will Furnish Music; F. G. Fink and D. E. Rawley, Committee

The Colorado Springs Musicians Protective union, the local organization embracing practically every musician in the city, will give a ball at Simpson's hall next Wednesday evening for the benefit of the charity fund of the union.

The demands upon the funds of the organization toward alleviating distress among the many members of the profession who seek the Three Peaks region in search of health are great, and its philanthropic activities have come to be regarded as the leading feature of its business work.

For the charity ball next Wednesday night, many new "stunts" have been arranged by the committee in charge, which consists of Fred G. Fink and D. E. Rawley. A notable feature of the ball will be the retention of the two orchestras. These are stationed at opposite ends of the ballroom and one begins playing as soon as the other stops, thus furnishing continuous music for dancing.

Tickets for the ball have been placed in the hands of members of the musicians' union and may be obtained from them up to the evening of the ball.

Rev. J. H. Spencer to Talk at Joint Meeting Today

The Rev. J. H. Spencer will speak at the joint prayer meeting of the Y. M. C. A. business women and Y. M. C. A. business men at noon today in the Princess theater. This will be the last opportunity for women to attend a service of the "week of prayer," which is being conducted under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

"Prayer" was the subject which the Rev. Martin Joslin took for his address yesterday. He spoke of it in general terms and alluded to the part it had played in the lives of such great men as President Lincoln and others. He also emphasized the value of prayer in the life of the ordinary business man of today. The postoffice quarter gave several selections.

At today's meeting the Y. M. C. A. quartette will sing and hot coffee and sandwiches will be served. The Rev. E. C. Hallbrook will address tomorrow's meeting, and the closing session Sunday at 2:30 o'clock will be addressed by the Rev. R. A. Pollock.

C. W. MURPHY BLOCKS DEAL FOR CUB SALE TO FEDS AND PEACE HALTED

Weeghman, Owner of Chiefs, Wanted to Buy Cubs but Hitch in Plans May Put End to Talk of Ending R. B. War

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Negotiations between C. W. Murphy and August Herrmann expected to result in the Cubs acquiring control of the Chicago Nationals unexpectedly came to a halt tonight after their fifth meeting.

Mr. Herrmann, who represented the Yafft interests in the meetings, sent word to the newspapers that the preliminary stages in the negotiations had been passed and that final terms must be arranged by Weeghman and Charles P. Taft.

It was generally believed tonight that rumors that Charles W. Murphy held 52 per cent of the stock in the west side club as collateral for the purchase price due him and the likelihood of his opposing the removal of the Cub club from the grounds, of which he is part owner, had a large part in stopping the deal. This, however, was not confirmed by either party to the negotiations.

According to Herrmann, there is hardly a chance anything further will develop this month.

With the halt in the Cub deal, hope of immediate baseball peace was deferred but it was rumored that a truce calculated to prevent competitive bidding on ball players' salaries would be reached.

News that minor leagues had agreed on salary and player limits was taken as evidence that their leaders had assurance of a working agreement between organized baseball and the Federal league.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 12.—The Chicago Cubs have been sold to Charles Weeghman, Federal league manager, and peace has been restored in the "small world." This is the information given out here today by Ed Berrows, president of the International league. He says that the deal was closed in Chicago this morning, but that official announcement will not be made until tonight for publication in tomorrow's morning papers.

Berrows was hard hit by the Fed invasion last year and has been in a bad way with the plans for peace. He had been in the thick of the deal, but he has been in the thick of the deal, but he has been in the thick of the deal.

According to Berrows, Weeghman paid a record price for the Cubs. He says that as part of the deal Joe Thicker, pilot of the Chiefs, will be taken back into organized ball and will manage the Cubs.

The western league held a postponed meeting here this morning and decided upon a 164-game schedule instead of 168, as heretofore. The season will open April 23 and close September 18. The league will also return to the single umpire system.

It was learned here this afternoon that if peace has really been reached between the Fed and organized ball, Jimmy McGill will be offered largely through the sale of Bonnie Kauff to the New York Giants for $20,000. Kauff jumped McGill's Indianapolis club.

WHY THERE IS NO SPORT IN ENGLAND NOW

This photograph shows the well known British pugilist, Fred Fox, in the act of looking a meek of "spuds" for the British troops on the continent. He is only one of hundreds of leading athletes who have dropped their accustomed pursuits and enlisted and are now at the front. Many of them have been killed or wounded, and taking it all around, the outlook for sports in England is poor for several years to come. The sporting talent is now interested only in the game of war.

The ravages of war will be especially felt in the ranks of the polo players, for many of these are British cavalry officers, and some belong to regiments which have been decimated in the horrible fighting on the plains of France and Belgium.

The amateur oarsmen are found in the fleet in large numbers and if the losses continue at the rate they have occurred in the first three months of the war, the Thames will have to mourn some of its most prized watermen.

BOULDER AND MINES. When Matty Was an Athletic New Dope CONFIDENT OF WIN

Teams in Good Shape and C. U. Expects Hardest Scrap of Season

BOULDER, Colo., Nov. 12.—Colorado's football team will line up against its fourth opponent, Saturday in Denver, when it meets the squad from Golden. Although the feeling is rather general on the campus that the four players will be defeated, the Silver and Gold supporters realize that the contest will be a hard one.

Colorado is becoming more efficient in each game. The almost perfect forward passes of Walter and Huber, the brilliant run of Donovan and McGee, and the deft handling of Ivers and Nelson place the Colorado backfield in a position easily above that of any other team in the conference.

An important consideration in the next game is the strength of the line. The Golden players are famous for their strong defense, and much work will be thrown upon the States' initial offense. Though the Colorado players were subjected to great criticism for weakness in this regard at the beginning of the season, they have been developing rapidly during the last two weeks. They exhibited old style holding qualities in the Utah contest which is encouraging to State supporters.

Golden, Colo., Nov. 12.—Light practice was indulged in last night by the Miners in preparation for their game Saturday. A good stiff bucking, along with the freshmen is scheduled for tonight.

Unless injuries develop this week the Blue squad will take the field with its full strength massed for one final determined effort. Williams will be back in the game and will materially increase the efficiency of the machine through his punting ability. He will alternate with McQuinn at half, it being a question of condition of the two as to which one will start the contest.

Worth, the guard who last week unexpectedly demonstrated that he owns a prolific toe, is daily improving in place kicking and local fans expect at least one score by him.

The Miners' Colorado contest is the biggest sporting event of the year to the Golden people and preparations have been made by many merchants to close their places of business for the day.

Baseball Magazine Tells of Late Discovery

From the December National Magazine

Not many will remember that Matty was once a member of the Athletics but for a minute. He is signed with Connie Mack and later unsignified by him. He is now in the hands of the Philadelphia magazine, the December issue.

It is a little hard to believe in such a career as a ball player, such a career was a prospect and I didn't want to go with a league that wouldn't last three months. But at the same time, I didn't want to go back on my word to Connie Mack, so I explained to Mr. Freedman that I had already received $50 in advance money and asked him if he would return the money to Mack. He said he would, and we left the matter in that way. I immediately wrote to Connie Mack, explained the situation, told him I was threatened with a suit by Mr. Freedman, and asked him if he would stand behind me in this suit. To his communication I received no reply. I repeat that Mack knew nothing of my ability as a player, except through hearsay, and no doubt thought if there was going to be so much trouble in getting possession of the game, it was worth the trouble.

It was some three weeks after this that I received a letter from Mr. Freedman from Andrew Freedman. He said that I had committed some crime and must see him at once to straighten out the kinks in my reputation. Inasmuch as he offered to pay my expenses to New York and back, I thought I had better see what he had on his mind. I walked into his office unaccompanied by the weight of guilt I was carrying, but he speedily undeceived me. As soon as he saw me he shut the office door, pulled up his chair, shook his finger at me and said: "See here, young man, what is this I hear about you and the American league? Don't you know that you belong to my club, and that you can't play at all? I was completely taken aback and said: "Why, Mr. Freedman, I am already signed up with Connie Mack." "That doesn't make any difference," said Freedman, "the American league won't last three months, and then where will you be? Every player who goes with that league will be black-listed. He won't be able to play anywhere else as long as he lives, and furthermore, you are the property of this club, and if you refuse to stay, to your agreement I will bring suit against you myself."

This was a remarkable revelation to me. Prior to this I had had no inkling of my value to Mr. Freedman of the New York club. Possibly had it not been for the fact that his entire pitching staff had deserted to the American league and he was left flat without a twirler, Mr. Freedman himself would have had no use for me. However, as it was, I was taking advantage of my position. I was brought on my imagination that I didn't know where I was at. I naturally didn't want to leave my future career as a ball player, such a career was a prospect and I didn't want to go with a league that wouldn't last three months. But at the same time, I didn't want to go back on my word to Connie Mack, so I explained to Mr. Freedman that I had already received $50 in advance money and asked him if he would return the money to Mack. He said he would, and we left the matter in that way. I immediately wrote to Connie Mack, explained the situation, told him I was threatened with a suit by Mr. Freedman, and asked him if he would stand behind me in this suit. To his communication I received no reply. I repeat that Mack knew nothing of my ability as a player, except through hearsay, and no doubt thought if there was going to be so much trouble in getting possession of the game, it was worth the trouble.

The meeting of the Western league was one of the significant doings outside the regular association meetings. That league decided on a 154-game schedule, beginning April 23 and closing September 19.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12.—The all-star Americans took the opening game of the series here from the Nationals today by a score of 2 to 1.

Boston "Bill" James took the mound for the losers in a rather explosive state of mind, allowing three runs in the first round. Dush gutpunched him throughout.

Score:
Americans..... 5 1 1
Nationals..... 2 5 2

Kip Williams, the bantam champion, is growing his class, a head-on collision. Nothing wonderful in that. Paddy McFarland has outgrown his class and several others.

Delving into history, we find that the Tigers and Ministers have always fought each other with all the fight they could muster. Since 1910 the Ministers have been trying to reverse a defeat which in that year cost them the state title and gave it to the Tigers by one point. Prior to that time the Tigers were trying to get revenge on the Ministers and especially "Gravy-train" Schroeder, the famous halfback.

In 1910—the year the Tigers did not play Boulder—and when they won the title, the championship game was staged at Broadway park in Denver. Both teams scored a touchdown. Fred Bloom, in his attempt to kick goal, missed, but luckily for the Tigers a Minister had been offside and Fred Bloom had kicked the ball over the Tigers' winning, 6 to 5. This was the last year of the old scoring system. It was a terrific game, too, in the days of Clem Crowley and Schroeder.

Last year the Tigers, bruised after the Mine game, came back and welcomed the Ministers, 21 to 2. Chese was the special star of this game. The Tigers were outwitted but put up a splendid exhibition of the comeback spirit, after the heart breaking loss to the Miners the Saturday before.

In 1912, on Thanksgiving, the Tigers won from the Ministers, 20 to 3. It was this year that there was a row between the two institutions over the eligibility of several Denver players, but it was satisfactorily settled the night before the game. In 1911 the Tigers won by the score of 13 to 0.

More Hard Scrimmage.
Coach Rothgeb was in his room late last night and he kept his door ajar—his head as it tilted back, getting rid of almost all remaining signs of chills, hiccups and bruises. The entire squad was given a hard workout and appeared to be in good shape outside of Verner at halfback there will be no other changes in the lineup tomorrow.

The Denver team has been working three hours every day to get in shape for the Tigers. Coach Buckingham, the ex-Princeton star, is in charge of the destinies of the Deacons this year and night.

YALE AND PRINCETON IN FIGHTING TRIM FOR GAME

Tiger and Bulldog Clash Saturday at Palmer Stadium; Both Teams Make Good Showing

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 12.—Ellis eleven, with the last hard scrimmage until the Princeton game Saturday behind them, today were put through a stiff signal drill with a punting practice by Leeson and the other kickers to top off the day's work. Yesterday the team practiced in the monster new Yale bowl for the first time. There had been prophesies that acoustic properties of the bowl would prevent signals being heard during cheering, so 1,500 students were turned loose to yell their heads off. The team had no trouble getting Quarterback Williams' signals.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 12.—Princetonians were greatly cheered today over the varsity's showing yesterday against the scrubs in the final training workout before the Yale game. The scrubs were drilled 21 to 6. Today's workout was to be a light one.

A WORDY BATTLE

THE present European war has proved conclusively that mudslinging is not a characteristic of political campaigns alone. The fighting nations have belabored each other with pen as well as with sword until few of them have left anything unsaid. That there is bound to be a certain amount of cruelty in every war is a foregone conclusion, but it is equally certain that the tales and accusations that reach the United States from the front are greatly exaggerated. When soldiers go berserker in the frenzy of battle there is no telling to what lengths they may be led, but it is improbable to believe that soldiers torture their prisoners in cold blood and commit horrible atrocities.

Lord Roberts, the hero of the Boer war, has written a few words of excellent advice to his countrymen, warning them to refrain from mudslinging and fight a clean fight. It is:

May I give a word of caution to my countrymen against the unpardonable practice of abusing one's enemies? Let us avoid what Kipling, during the Boer war, described as "killing Kruger with your mouth." Let us rather devote all our energies to defeating our enemies by the superior fighting of adequate numbers of British soldiers in the open field.

When we read the charges against the German troops, let us remember that those charges, absolutely untrue, were brought against our own brave soldiers fighting in South Africa, but whether the charges are true or not, let us keep our hands clean and let us fight against the Germans in such a way as to save their living as well as their respect.

America in general and the President in particular have been the recipients of many a tale of woe in the last few weeks. Nations have accused nations of using dum-dum bullets, and nations have retaliated with tales and accusations of horrible cruelties that have been practised on their prisoners. The public likes a clean fight and pays but little attention or sympathy to mudslinging, other than to despise the countries for using those methods of attack.

EDITORIAL APOLOGIES

THE best comedy before the people of this town just now is the efforts of the Evening Telegraph to spread before its readers the glad tidings of its new-found adherence to the cause of prohibition. Somehow, although there is the same old conflict between the editorial and news columns and the same difficulty in making the one interpret the other.

Wednesday evening the Telegraph printed a lengthy attack on prohibition which for venom and utter unreasonableness surpassed even its Boozie Men's League articles. It was credited to the Louisville Courier-Journal and bore the flaring headline, "An Inner View of a Pending Issue." Readers were in doubt whether the reference to prohibition as a "pending issue" meant that the article had been prepared for publication before the recent election, or that Editor Elliot still regards it as an unsettled question in Colorado. Remembering that the vitality of the new prohibition law depends on the extent to which the next Legislature reinforces it by laws providing penalties, etc., the latter conclusion seemed the more reasonable. Remembering, too, that Editor Elliot is to be a member of that Legislature and that his paper always has been, and is still, the boozie organ of this region, his use of the term "pending issue" seemed significant.

On the next page the Telegraph treated its readers to still another installment of its favorite brand of booze literature, an interview with a distiller from Kentucky who happened to be here, and who expressed the thoughtful opinion that of course more liquor will be sold in Colorado under prohibition than under license, which of course shows that he, as a distiller, ought to be a red-hot booster for prohibition.

It seems to have occurred to the editor that all of this was a pretty heavy dose of booze arguments for one issue of the paper, so we find in yesterday's Telegraph an editorial gracefully apologizing for it. The Telegraph "regrets the publication" of the Courier-Journal article, "inasmuch as it does not voice the sentiments of the paper." But get this—it is particularly out of place after the voters of the state have registered their views and have voted for state-wide prohibition. And we (the editor) are worried to death to know how it got into our columns. It must have been "placed in the paper by someone without authority to do so." And oh, horrors! "A careful investigation is being made to find out, if possible, who is responsible for its appearance!"

White roses and slow music for the editorial underling who stupidly allowed that article to get into print after the election. It would have been good stuff before the election—good, live, first-page stuff, worthy of a place between the brown-bottle ads and the Boozie Men's League arguments. But after the election—bah, a clumsy blunder!

The Telegraph's editorial apology concludes with the restatement of its new declaration of faith in prohibition, which, as it appropriately observes, "was stated the day after election." It imparts the sagacious advice that inasmuch as prohibition is soon to become effective, "it is manifestly the duty of every citizen to obey and abide by this prohibitory law." Whether you like it or not, you must climb on the water-wagon, for it is unlawful to do otherwise. Fine! You can always depend on the Telegraph for advice on how to vote on moral issues in politics. True, the advice doesn't come until after the election, and always agrees with the majority vote. And in this case, if you are not in accord with the Telegraph's new-found enthusiasm for prohibition you can find diversion in its anti-prohibition interviews and reprints.

THE WAR IN THE PACIFIC

IT WOULD be surprising indeed if the successive exploits of the German submarines, followed by the German naval victory off the coast of Chile, did not cast gloom over England. The English may or may not expect their land forces to win victories, but to them the fleet is invincible. The existence of the Empire depends on it, and although they put up a brave front when reverses came they are nevertheless justified in doing a good deal of worrying over the long list of German successes on the sea.

But close on the heels of the news of the loss of the squadron in the South Pacific comes better tidings. The German cruiser Emden, which bade fair to equal the record of the Confederate Alabama, has been sunk by an Australian warship. The Koenigsberg, another energetic destroyer of British shipping, is reported disabled and bottled up on the east coast of Africa. And the Germans have surrendered Tsing-Tau, and with it their Chinese colony of Kiaochow.

The latter development leaves the Japanese fleet free to take up the work of running down German vessels which, like the Emden and the Koenigsberg, are working such disaster with the ocean trade of the allied nations. Another possible consequence is the sending of the Japanese army, via Siberia, to help the Russians on the German border. Germany is, of course, incapable of further resistance in the Orient, and Japan's entire strength on both land and sea is now available for whatever use may be desired.

It is interesting to note the far-reaching effects of the destruction of shipping wrought by the German cruisers in the Pacific. A dispatch from St. Louis notes that a large factory there which manufactures twine, bagging and other products made of coarse fiber, has been compelled to reduce its product and lay off its men because its supply of raw material from the Orient was cut off by the raids of the Emden. The incident shows the extent to which the remotest phases of the war can affect the welfare of people in every part of the world.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT'S WARNING.
 From the Chicago Herald.
 Colonel Roosevelt is well known as an advocate of military training for every male citizen. He believes such training would be personally beneficial to every man and would be a prudent provision against certain possible contingencies. His statement is questioned by no sane person. It is an undeniably wise and patriotic.

to protect them. "This would cripple our country and give the enemy the means to invade the war. I have seen the definite plans for the capture and holding to ransom of New York and San Francisco." The unavoidable, unnecessary, inference is that Mr. Roosevelt speaks from knowledge officially obtained while he was president. Of course, nobody doubts what he says. The situation of San Francisco points to one. The very frank publications of some of its recognized military experts identify the other.

Many will hold that Colonel Roosevelt is unnecessarily alarmed. Some will dispute the accuracy of his information. Such is the average American's aversion to war, and to preparations for war, that nothing is likely to be done. However, if such calamities should befall us as Colonel Roosevelt predicts he will have the satisfaction of having given us plain warning of them.

THE FOREIGN LABEL

From the Chicago Tribune.
 Perhaps a psychologist will arise some day and explain why the American nation, which has been successful in ridding itself of so many of the prejudices of so much of the bigotry and narrowness found in many old world countries, has been backward in freeing itself from the fetish worship of the foreign label. It is a phenomenon that needs explaining. Hard-headed business men, millions of sensible, practical people, are persistently humbugged by merchants at home and abroad who are aware of the great American weakness the love of the word "imported."

A manufacturer, speaking before the committee of the "Made in America" movement in New York, laid bare some of the frauds that are perpetrated upon the unsuspecting American consumer because of this weakness for the foreign label. Goods manufactured in this country, he said, are frequently sent abroad and then reshipped back under an imported label to meet the American craving for the foreign stamp. There is the story of an American musician who sent to one of the oldest cities in Europe for a sitar, and when the "made in Europe" article arrived it bore the stamp of an American manufacturer who lived on the same street with the musician. It is an open secret that milliners buy Parisian labels and sew them in the hats made in this country. Of course, the price of the home manufactured hat bearing a foreign label is much larger than what the same hat would be without the label.

It is up to the public to free itself from this fetish worship of the foreign label. "Made in America" should be the best recommendation for any article. Patriotism no less than self-respect demands that we cease to slur our own enterprises.

Dead to the Pleasure Call

BY RUTH CAMERON

It is a sad thing to have one's ears closed to the call of duty. That is an axiom which we realize when we act upon it or not.

But it is not also a sad thing to let one's ears grow dead to the call of pleasure.

There is a time to work and there is a time to run away from work. To fail to recognize either of these times is to miss part of the flavor of life.

The other day I begged a neighbor of mine to come out into the woods with me. It was one of those glorious autumn days when the tang of the first frost makes wine of the air; when the roadside was bright with the last of the golden rod; when the woods were a plot of gold and scarlet; when the autumn mist lay soft on the distant hills—a time when it was good to be alive and better to be outdoors.

My neighbor heard the call of the warbler and he could help that, but she, who stood herself against it, turned the deaf ear of her heart towards it. "Yes, it is beautiful and I love to come," she said, "but I planned to put up those branches today."

"Wouldn't they keep till tomorrow?" I pleaded.

"Yes," reluctantly, "but I planned to do them today."

And no amount of pleading would make her out-pace that god of the careful housewife—a plan.

Do you know what I think—that never put off till tomorrow what you can do today?—is meant for pleasure as well as duty.

Happiness is an effervescent thing. It must be drunk at the moment or the draft will go stale and flat. I have sometimes regretted putting off my pleasures as deeply as procrastinating my duties.

Once upon a time when I was a college girl I came home from college to spend the day away from the distractions of dormitory life working on a difficult thesis. I meant to get a great deal done, but before I had been there an hour my big brother came in from the city for one of those rare holidays he allowed himself, fetched his golf clubs and looked about for a comrade, whereupon I laid down the thesis and went.

If you are a sister you may know that when brothers are very much older and very busy, an afternoon of real companionship with them is rare. I suppose I wrote the thesis sometime. I've forgotten that, and I don't remember even what it was about, but I do remember I have never forgotten the day when I was with him.

It is a sad thing to have one's ears closed to the call of duty. That is an axiom which we realize when we act upon it or not.

But it is not also a sad thing to let one's ears grow dead to the call of pleasure.

VON MOLTKE

In 1809 there was born in the corner lot Duchy of Mecklenburg-Schwerin a boy, who was promptly wrapped up by his admiring parents with the name Helmuth Karl Bernhard von Moltke.

"Von Moltke was sent to Turkey to teach that nation how to fight."

Had to fight Denmark as a substitute. So Von Moltke traveled over to Berlin with his sword neatly wrapped up among his other baggage and got a job fighting for the king of Prussia at the age of 23.

Von Moltke was a very good soldier and was sent to Turkey to teach that nation how to fight. Giving it up as a bad job, he came back to Prussia and began to develop the science of making war by means of a map and a pair of compasses. Month after month he stayed in his office figuring out ways and means of serving hot dinners to large armies in the enemy's country and of getting said armies to a given spot several hours ahead of the other fellow. He figured through middle age and until his hair became gray. Then he was made chief of staff, and at the age of 54 was asked to go over to Denmark and knock it into a cocked hat.

Denmark had always been a tough little nut for Prussia, but Von Moltke merely drew out a bale of plans and specifications, put on his helmet and started. A few months later Denmark was whipped, and in 1868 he was asked to stroll over to the southeast and put a large Gothic head on Austria.

Austria was much more formidable than Denmark, but Von Moltke cleaned up the job before all of the Austrian army had had a chance to get shot at. And in 1870 war was declared against France and Bismarck sent a messenger boy over to Von Moltke asking him to go over to Paris and mess up the Champs Elysees.

Von Moltke hauled out another wheelbarrow load of plans from pigeonhole No. 6 and started. For a thousand years no one had made this journey successfully, but Von Moltke celebrated his seventieth birthday in Versailles and handed Alsace and Lorraine to the king as souvenirs of the trip.

When Von Moltke returned to Berlin he was made a count, a field marshal, a member of the Prussian upper house for life, and was given $250,000 and so many medals that he couldn't have hung them on a billboard. In return he presented the government with a son, who is running the present war.

Von Moltke remained in charge of the army to the age of 84 and died at the age of 90. He wrote many books, but never said more than one or two words at a time. He was a very talented conversationalist with artillery, however.

SHORT SESSION MAY HAVE NEW APPROPRIATION BILL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Another fight over a rivers and harbors appropriation bill is in prospect for the coming short session of congress. Plans for launching a general appropriation bill are contemplated by the house rivers and harbors committee, although the scope of the measure has not yet taken definite shape. The rivers and harbors bill at the last session was filibustered against in the senate, with a resulting compromise on a lump appropriation of $3,000,000 for work on existing projects only.

U. S. BALANCE OF TRADE $10,518,872 FOR WEEK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Exports at ten principal American ports for the week ending November 7, exceeded the imports by more than $10,000,000, the department of commerce announced, although there were but five business days that week because of elections. The imports totaled $35,129,885 and the exports were $35,645,767, leaving a balance of trade in favor of the United States of $1,015,882. More than $3,000,000 were collected in duties.

COWL NOT A SUCCESS

Going through central New York recently I noticed the great profusion of cowls. Nearly every chimney was capped with some kind of a device. The profusion of cowls reminded me of the chimney tops seen in some of the old cities of Europe. Elaborate cowls are rarely seen in the middle west.

The theory is that "cowls and terminals" serve three purposes: 1. They keep the rain from falling down the stack. This they usually accomplish. 2. They prevent downdrafts. This they do fairly well. Some are so constructed that regardless of the force and direction of the wind none ever turns down the chimney. Others are not so successful in this particular. 3. The wind passing through the cowl creates a vacuum which draws air or smoke up the stack.

The first of these purposes relates more particularly to terminals over chimneys. The second to both chimneys and ventilators; while the third applies especially to cowls used over ventilators.

In 1905 the Royal Sanitary Institute appointed a committee to investigate "cowls and terminals." This committee investigated and studied for twenty-four years one by one the "cowls and terminals." Finally none survived except the cowl.

Field contributed $10,000 to the expense of the investigation besides giving it gratuitously a good part of his time for a quarter of a century. In 1900 Mr. Field died and the report was turned over to William Shaw to be put in order and published. He got it in shape and published it as a copy of the Journal of the Royal Sanitary Institute for October, 1901.

The records show that the members investigated scores of methods of capping a chimney and more than a hundred forms of ventilating cowls. A great many of the natural ventilating devices now on the American market are found among the devices tested out by this commission. The tests were made under all sorts of conditions of wind and weather. Generally speaking, they are not worth a cowl. Their value is their value as junk.

In some of them when the wind was in one direction, a vacuum was created and ventilation aided. A little veer and the vacuum gave place to high pressure and ventilation was impeded. In one I note an average ventilating efficiency of 104, the ordinary force in the room giving an efficiency of 100. On the other hand I note one with an average efficiency of 27. The room would, however, be nearly four times as warm as the outside air.

Geography of the War Zone

Geographic Society Issues War Geography Primer

The National Geographic society is issuing in installments a primer of European war geography. The locations and descriptions of many places frequently mentioned in the war news have already been printed. Others follow.

MONTMEDY—A fortified town of the second class in northern France, 24 miles north of Verdun and four miles from the Belgian border on the Chiers river. Part of the town is on a steep height, defended by advanced works of considerable extent, and part on a plain, defended by a wall flanked with bastioned towers. The houses are all built and the streets are irregular. Flour, oats, sugar, leather, beer, oil, flour and lumber are manufactured there while large stone quarries are in the immediate neighborhood. In the nearby Abbey of Orval, Louis XIV and his family took refuge on their flight from Paris. The walls of the town were built in 1220. Montmedy was repeatedly taken from Spain in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth centuries. German troops captured it in 1915 and again in 1916 after reducing it to a heap of ruins. This town has been on the German front for half a century, the population at that time having sunk from 10,000 to 1,000.

ROUBEREN—An old-fashioned town of northern France, in a valley on the Somme, 13 miles north of Montdidier and 11 miles east of Amiens. The town is one of the hosiery manufacturing centers of France and also has large tanneries for the making of hosiery and weaving appliances. Wool and sugar mills are located there. In the surrounding districts are veins of subterranean coal and beds of lime.

GOUDWAERENFLUDE—A hamlet in northern France, seven miles north-east of Hazebrouck, at the foot of a ridge lying between Hazebrouck and the Belgian border. In the neighborhood is a Trappist monastery and the celebrated castle of Mt. Cat. Its population slightly exceeds half a thousand.

HAUTMONT—A town of northern France, four miles southwest of Maubeuge, and six miles from the Belgian border, near the Sambre river. Several iron foundries and rifle factories are located there. The place has a population of about 5,000.

ST. HUBERT—A town of southeastern Belgium, in the province of Luxembourg, on an elevation near the Homme, a tributary of the Lesse 30 miles northeast of Metz. France and 28 miles southeast of Namur. The church of St. Hubert, built from 1225 to 1575, was one of the largest and most magnificent in Belgium. The abbey was founded in 998 and was pillaged by the Normans in 1000 and by the Danes and Hungarians in 964. It was burned in 1117, was rebuilt later and was set on fire by the Calvinists in 1568. After being restored, the church was burned to the ground by the Revolutionists in 1797. It was replaced by a penitentiary. The town of St. Hubert was the birthplace of Pierre-Joseph Redouté, regarded in Europe as one of the most remarkable painters of flowers who ever lived. The place has a population of about 3,000, and has several iron works and tanneries.

MARIAKERKE-SUR-MER—An unimportant bathing resort one and three-quarter miles southwest of Ostend, on the North sea. The place is one of many similar towns along the Belgian coast which was laid during the summer and have few if any activities during the cold seasons of the year. It has a population of about 1,200. The old walls of Fort Wellington, built by the French government, are still standing.

SLUTH—Not long ago this little Holland town just across the Belgian border and three miles from the coast line was a fortress of the first class today it is unimportant. Its connection by canal with the Zwin, an arm of the sea which at one time extended far inland but which has been filling up with silt since the fifteenth century made the town a seaport. The canal also connects the place with Brugge, 17 miles to the southwest. The place has a curious hotel, with a bell of the fourteenth century. Its population is about 2,500. In 1340 Edward III of England decisively defeated the French fleet off the coast. The French name of the town is VEUSE.

ALTKIRCH—An Alsatian town, nine miles south of Mulhausen on an eminence near the Ill river, on the "high road" from Paris to Basel. Important deposits of clay in the vicinity have caused large brick potteries and tile industries to spring up in recent years. The town has some trade in gypsum quarried near by. The remains of an ancient Roman temple of the fourteenth century still exist. The town has a population of about 4,000.

MARKIRCH—An upper Alsatian town in the heart of the Vosges, commanding one of the passes through the mountains in the valley of the upper Labe. Unlike many of its neighboring towns it has no mines, but it leads in the number of its weavers, hundreds of people being employed in this industry. The town has a population of some 13,000, and has several iron foundries, machine shops, textile works and tanneries. It carries on considerable trade with St. Die, on the French slope of the Vosges.

JABLONKA PASS—One of the avenues through the West Bohemian mountains of the Carpathian chain from northwestern Hungary to Austrian Silesia. Starting from Olmütz a small town at the junction of the Sazava and the Kisuza, and following the valley of the former river for some distance the line ascends to a peak to a height of 1,805 feet. The Mlýnský tunnel penetrates the pass for a distance of 866 yards and the descent is made in long curves to the town of Jablonka. This place has a population of about 4,000 and has linen and cloth industries.

RADYMNO—A Galician village, 13 miles north of the Austrian fortress of Przemyśl on the left bank of the San river. It is 18 miles from Lemberg, in the direction of Cracow. Like the great majority of Galician villages its growth of population has been almost at a standstill for many years as it shows an increase of only 400 inhabitants in a half century. Its present population is about 2,100 and the chief industry is the manufacture of wool-cloth and rope.

PILICA—A small town of Russian Poland, 30 miles northwest of a railway and 33 miles southeast of Zestowice, on a river of the same name. The town has carried on a good trade in grain with Prussian Silesia and with Austria. It has large tanneries and textile works. The population is between 4,000 and 5,000. The Pilica river rises in the southwestern part of Russian Poland flows north for about 50 miles and north of east for about 50 miles, falling into the Vistula 24 miles above Warsaw.

ST. MENNEHOLD—In the picturesque valley of the Aisne, in northwestern France about four miles west of the forest of Argonne lies this little town of about half a thousand inhabitants. It was here that Old-Dragoon Drouot recognized Louis XVI in his attempted flight from France in 1791. The town is known for its pork. The place was named from Mennehold daughter of Signare, Count of Perthes, who lived in a magnificent castle on top of the steep rocky hill at whose foot the town is located. The daughter was famed for her chastity deeds and was considered a saint by the poor people to whose wants she ministered. In 1793 the people of the town changed its name from Montagne sur Aisne to St. Mennehold.

ST. JUVIN—A village in the forest of Argonne region of northern France, four miles west of Grandpre and about 25 miles east of Reims. On top of a hill the town a huge 13th century building a Middle Ages fortress with four turrets is seen. A nearer view reveals the fact that it is a church, one of the most curious in the Argonne region. It is dedicated to St. Juvénat who was a slave employed to watch cattle in the forest. Legend says he built himself a place to pray in the dense woods. His master, Marc, a nobleman, asked him to explain. The slave explained in his hand a dead and green leaves sprouted from its sides. Marc immediately ordered that after he had the inscription be placed over his grave stating he was a believer in the resurrection from the dead, and that he was "only a worm of the dirt."

GRANDPRE—A small town on the northern border of the forest of Argonne, in the northwestern part of France at the foot of a steep valley on the right bank of the river Aisne. A large castle in which are many relics and places of art nearly 900 years old crowns the top of a neighboring hill. The town commands one of the passes running east and west through the hills and wooded Argonne.

THEODOSIA, or KAIFA—A fashionable seaside resort on the southeast coast of Crimea, rising on the side of the hills overlooking the sea. The town is said to have reached a population of 100,000 in the Middle Ages. Six hundred years ago the Genoese started a colony there and their city finally rivaled Athens in splendor and size but the attacks of the Turks in 1475 ruined the city's prosperity. It fell rapidly. In recent years it has begun to flourish again and now has a population close to 30,000, made up of Bulgarians, Armenians, Greeks and Russians. Their principal occupations are fishing, the preparation of caviar and the exportation of wheat, wool, hides and salt.

NOVORUSSKY—A town in the Russian province of Caucasus, on the northeast coast of the Black sea, 25 miles southeast of Anapa, and almost opposite Theodosia, 120 miles away. In 1722 the Turks built the fortress Soujouk-Kaleh on the site of the present town. This was destroyed by Russia in 1812 and in 1813 the fortress village was founded which withstood a siege by the allies in 1855. Novorussky has become an important commercial point, with the shipping of petroleum as its chief industry. The population today is about 18,000.

POLANZER—An extreme northwestern town of Russia, on the Baltic sea—18 miles due north of Gornin—northernmost town of Memel. The place is but eight miles from the Prussian frontier with which country it has in all recent years carried on an extensive commerce. It has excellent bathing facilities, and is noted for its yellow amber. It exports hides and cattle and receives in return cloth, sugar and agricultural machinery. Just to the south of the town is Mount Mersa celebrated because of the mass of a temple to the Lathian godless Praurima, which was destroyed by the knights of the Teutonic Order. The population is about 10,000.

MARIANOVKA—A Russian town, 15 miles south of southwest of Warsaw with a population of about 10,000. The town is situated on the banks of the Vistula river, and is a center of commerce. Makes Things Hum on Baking Day

Calumet Baking Powder is a wonder-worker on baking day.

Wonderful for its saving of time—its satisfaction—its economy.

No more expensive baking failures, no disappointments. Calumet insures greater happiness. Its leavening qualities are greater—its results surer than any other baking powder—its cost is moderate.

CERTIFIED MILK SAFER

P. B. writes: A friend has advised me to use certified milk for my baby. Will you please inform me the difference between this and the ordinary milk and if it is better for the baby? Also how to obtain it?

REPLY

Certified milk contains 100 per cent fat, is fresher, cooler and has fewer bacteria. It is produced by healthy tuberculin tested cows and the milkers are subjected to inspection. A carefully inspected, certified milk is safer than market milk. It costs about twice as much as market milk.

The Chicago Medical Society (see telephone directory) will furnish you a list of certified milk producers.

Quail Feather Acts as X-Ray on the Eyes, Says California Doctor

STOCKTON, Cal., Nov. 12.—An extraordinary incident quail feather had before the eyes serves the same purpose as a quail feather in line according to the doctor. P. B. writes of this, who has been a student of the feather.

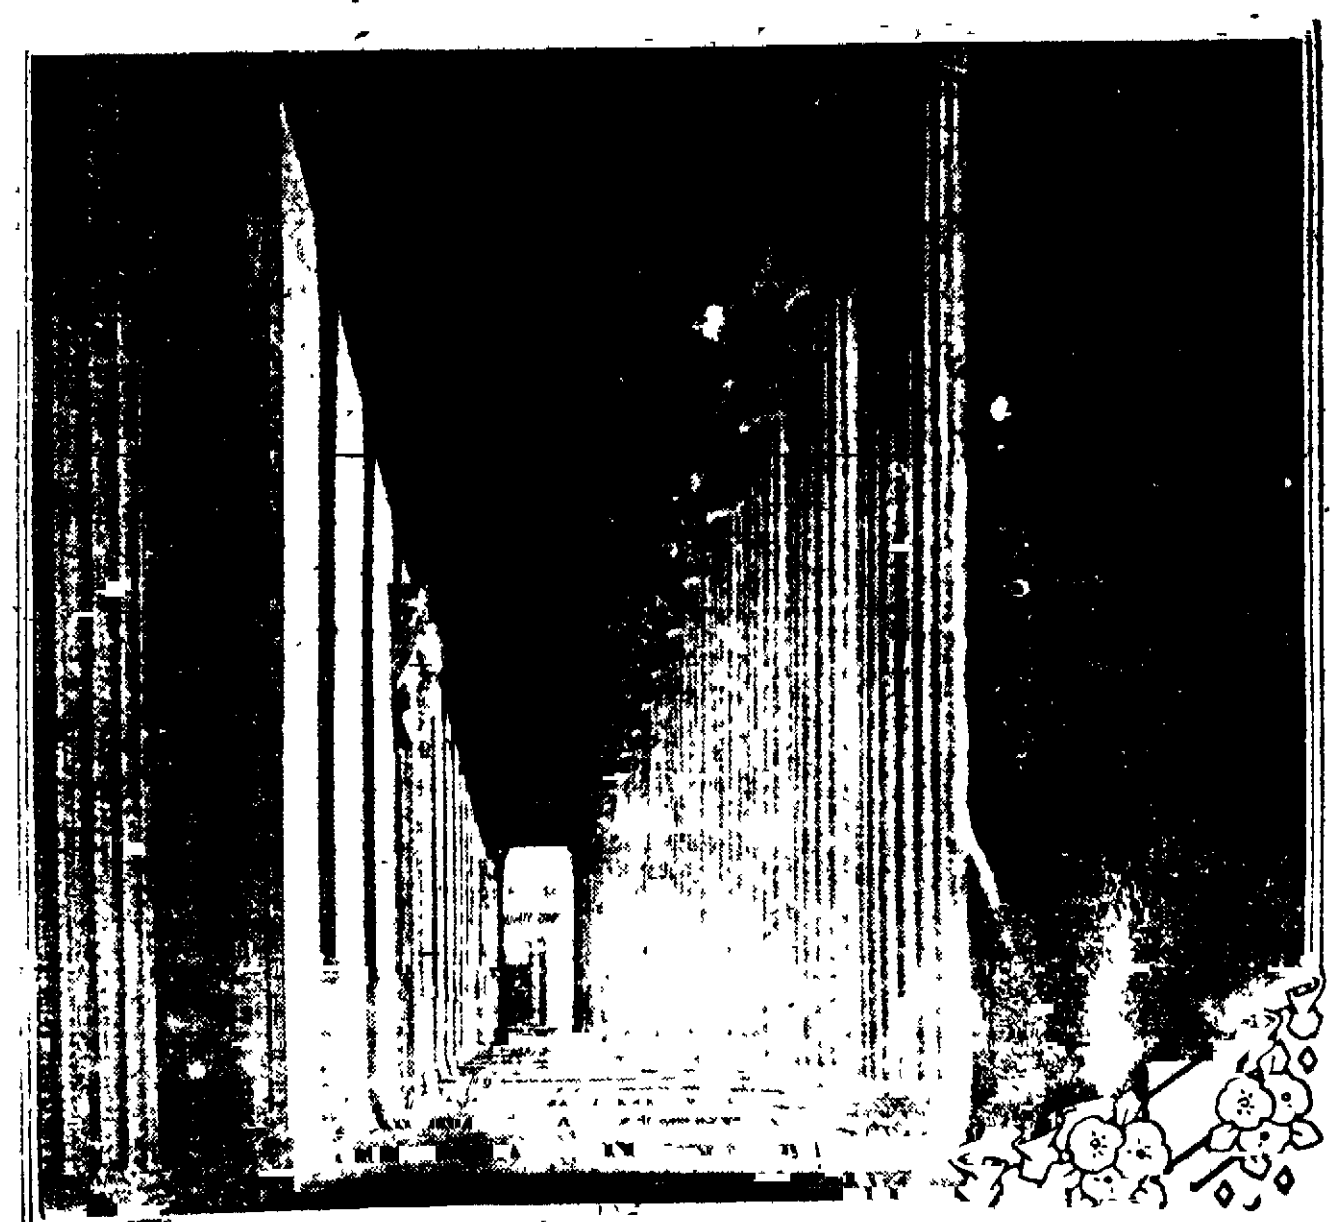

Preacher Who Caused Row at Rockerell Church Is Released

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Rock White, pastor of the Church of Social Revival, was discharged today from the Queens county jail. He had served his six months sentence for raising a disturbance in a Cavalry Baptist church. A delegation of 50 friends, each wearing a red flower, welcomed him enthusiastically in the jail yard. An automobile, draped with flags, took him away.

Standing uncovered in the court yard White led in singing "The Hymn of Liberty" and "I'm Coming Here Tomorrow." He has announced his intention to resign to disengage with the Rev. Charles Woodfin of Calvary church, where John D. Rockefeller, Jr. worships, the activities of the strikers at the Colorado mines.

In a short address White told the crowd that he had repented of his behavior in the jail yard with flowers and had regretted that he had not been the first to throw a stone. He will return to his church duties.

Superb Vestibule at Colossal Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, 1915

THIS photograph gives evidence of the imposing character of the Exposition. The capitals of the vast columns are richly ornamented and the vault above is colored cerulean blue. The disks at the apex of the vault contain colored lights which will illuminate the ceiling but which will not be directly seen by the visitor. The pinnacles are surmounted with imitation Trajan's marble's substance as hard as concrete.

DESTINY'S NIGHT

The Empress the special feature of the special Night, in which the plot, with a large cast, is presented. The story is a thrilling one, in which Gladys Brookfield takes the leading role.

"Betty Morse" is a two-reel American feature, a newspaper story, exciting and full of human interest.
It is a story of a girl who is wronged and who, through a series of adventures, finally finds her way back to her true home.

"Our Mutual Girl" is with us today, also, and displays some of the very finest acting produced by the great company of artists in the line of ladies' wear.
In addition, she meets with an exciting adventure that will thrill and interest you.

"HANKY PANKY"

The triumph of three cities—Chicago, Boston, New York—where it made a breaking run of 200 and 150 nights in each place, comes to the Opera House Saturday, matinee and night, when Lew Fields' all-star "Hanky Panky" company will be seen.

"Hanky Panky" is a potpourri of amusingly funny nonsense, varied by song, dances and spectacle on a main plot. Gladys, Jones and Lester Howard, in the quartet, "Where the Holewains is Blowing," together with Lester Harris and Florence Cripps, bring a reminder of the best of the old Weber and Fields' days. Ralph Edwards is another comedian who is a host to himself, while Jack Allan, as the central character, Markie Daw, is seen to great advantage. Virginia Davis, the beautiful popular young prima donna, who scored such an enthraltic success in "Hanky Panky" in Chicago and New York, is still singing the principal role of Cleopatra.

She will be heard in the charming numbers, "Rose of Pyramid Land" and "Dixie Love." Ruth Harris, Florence Cripps and Sally Dally are still playing their original parts. Not in all their years as headliners in vaudeville did Al and Fannie Stedman ever have such opportunity for fun making as in "Hanky Panky." No Lew Fields show would be complete without a Broadway chorus, therefore 50 stenting beauties in many changes of originally designed costumes, with properly adequate stage settings, lighting effects and all that goes with it, are assured. An unusual feature of "Hanky Panky" is the fact that there are still with it the original chorus girls, for it is more difficult to persuade chorus girls of the first grade to go on the road than it is to get stars; and, in order to do this, the management of "Hanky Panky" not only pays them a higher salary than any other company in the country, but supplies a special train with every possible comfort for the company to travel in.

MAY ROBSON

Next Monday and Tuesday, at the Opera House, the attraction will be May Robson, who is scoring a huge success in "Martha-by-the-Day," a comedy made by Julie M. Lippman from her book of similar title. The delightful mixture of comedy and sentiment that saves the story, a secure place among the "best sellers" of the past year, has been of equal help in popularizing the stage version. The early season audiences that have witnessed the performances of the comedy are most enthusiastic in their praise of Miss Robson's latest vehicle, and freely prophesy that, in the conventional role of Martha, she will attain a success of note. Both in the selection of a playing company and in the choice of scenic accessories, the Academic Producing company, Miss Robson's new management, has exercised excellent judgment. In each member of the cast, which includes Jane Heron, Langdon Gillet, Emily Lorraine, Henrietta Mc-Daniel, Edwin Brandt, Coates Gwynne,
Mary Mersch, Roy Ardmore, Elizabeth
Warren and others.

"CABIRIA"

D'Annunzio's Film Masterpiece in Natural Colors.

"Cabiria," the great motion-picture film, which is to be offered at the Opera House four days, commencing November 18, is one of the most beautiful specimens of motion-picture photography ever produced. Regarded merely as a work of art, it is alone worthy of inspection in perspective of the dramatic and spectacular properties. Parts of the film are made stereoscopic; that is to say, they have all the appearance and solidity and relief of the original subject. They look real as real that they have depth and solidity to a degree heretofore not shown in a motion picture. This wonderful effect is obtained by a patented device of the Itala Film company, who produced the picture. Stereoscopic motion pictures have long been sought and "Cabiria" is the first to offer the effect. The picture looks like itself both in respect to solidity and depth of field. In parts the picture is superbly tinted and toned and you have wonderfully realistic reproductions of an eruption, burning ships on the water, Alpine views, etc.
All these are shown in what you may approximately term natural colors.
There are silhouetted effects, moonlight and other wonderful specimens, giving opportunity for the introduction of artistically chosen colors. The entire picture is tinted and toned throughout.
Not a foot of plain film being included in the two hours and three-

Two Days' Sale of Winter Dress Goods

A Very Exceptional Price Saving Event

GREAT CLEARANCE OF DRESS GOODS. For this two days' sale we have arranged three groups of Dress Woolens from our regular stock, each group marked at a very startling low price. The unusual and continued warm weather this fall is wholly responsible for the drastic price cutting so early in the season. Our stock is large and simply must be reduced now while these materials are seasonable.

THIS TWO DAYS' SALE (today and Saturday) of Dress Goods is going to create new records for selling and for value giving, that will not be equaled again in many months. Hundreds of yards of seasonable weaves and desirable colorings from our regular stock are offered at prices that are actually less than what the same merchandise can be replaced for in the wholesale market today.

75c, 85c and $1

dents of the motion picture should make a point of seeing.

One of the best dramatic treats of the year will be offered Colorado Springs next Tuesday and Wednesday nights by the appearance of Mrs. Bertha Kuntz Baker, in Perkins hall. Mrs.
Baker, who is ranked by critics as the foremost interpretive readers in America, will give two readings, Maurice Maeterlinck's "Pelleas and Melisande," on Tuesday evening and Wagner's "Parsifal" on Wednesday evening.
"Pelleas and Melisande" is a drama by the Belgian author whose "Blue Bird" created such a sensation here a few years ago. "Pelleas and Melisande," though it differs in character from the "Blue Bird," is ranked by critics as the equal of the more famous drama. The success of its interpretation here is assured by the skillful way in which Mrs. Baker has handled other equally hard productions. Mrs. Baker was one of the few favored ones who witnessed the production of the drama at Maeterlinck's Belgian home.

BERLIN REPORT SAYS RUSSIANS SURPRISED BY AUSTRIAN ATTACK

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—The Frankfurter Zeitung has received the following dispatch regarding the reported defeat of the Russians, near Czernowitz, capital of the Austrian province of Bukowina:
"The Austrians made an unexpected movement across the Prut, a few kilometers north of Czernowitz and suddenly attacked the Russian right wing.

The Russians were completely surprised and after a short resistance decided to fall back upon their base, which seemed free. However, they were then taken under fire by Austrian artillery, which caused terrible losses among the Russian detachments. The battlefield was covered with corpses.
"The Russians were beaten yesterday in East Galicia, being repulsed in an action between Roenlow and Jahlnow."

MARTIAL LAW RAISED IN MONTANA DISTRICT

BUTTE, Mont., Nov. 12.—Martial law which has prevailed in Butte since the arrival of the National guard on September 1 was raised today when the soldiers departed from the city.
The governor's proclamation terminating martial law and reestablishing the civil authorities and the courts went into effect without any formality.

GERMANS HAVE TRAIL OF WRECKED BRIDGES IN SWEEP THROUGH BELGIUM

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Amsterdam correspondent of Reuters Telegram company telegraphs the following:
"State advices indicate that the Germans continue to blow up bridges and that among the structures so destroyed is the bridge near Heyst, in West Flanders. Sentries are guarding the railways from Brugge to Ghent from Courtrai to Ostend and so forth.
"The allies continue to occupy Ypres, but shells falling in town yesterday killed four children. Aeroplanes are reported to have dropped bombs which damaged the church and town hall and set fire to several other buildings.

"The Kaiser is journeying through Flanders visited Courtrai and expressed his satisfaction to the municipal authorities for the manner in which the German troops are quartered.
"From the Nieuport zone only feeble gun firing was heard on Wednesday.
"Trainloads of wounded are continuously being transported from the battle line."

WOMEN HAVE EQUAL RIGHTS IN PARISH MEETINGS

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Women hereafter will enjoy equal rights with men at parish meetings in the New York diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church. With only a dozen votes in the negative, they were given the right to vote by the adoption of a resolution at the annual diocesan convention in this city today.

You Should Worry If

it is difficult to find a safe and reliable remedy for the troubles due to irregular or defective action of the stomach, liver or bowels. These ailments are likely to attack anyone, and, if they, too, lead to worse sickness if not relieved.

Beecham's Pill

are famous the world over, for their power to correct these troubles certainly and safely. They cleanse the system, purify the blood and act as a general tonic upon body, brain and nerves.
Indigestion, biliousness, constipation might, indeed, cause you prolonged suffering and expose you to danger if Beecham's Pills
